

CALL FOR PAPERS

International Conference on Development Economics (3-4 July), AFEDEV

The Paris School of Economics (PSE) will host the 2023 International Conference on Development Economics (ICDE) in Paris on 3 and 4 July.

The objective of the conference is to be a forum for discussing innovative research in development economics, and rediscover the pleasure of face-to-face interactions with a large network of colleagues. Both empirical and theoretical contributions on a wide range of topics are welcome. Topics of interest include, but are not limited to: migration, climate change, monetary policy, growth, poverty, environment, taxation, agriculture, health, international trade, inequality, digitalization, firm performance, employment or conflict issues.

The conference will take place in person. We actively promote the participation of junior researchers and researchers based in the global South.

The ICDE is the annual conference of French association on development economics, AFEDEV. The conference follows up on the 2022 edition, which was organized by CERDI in Clermont-Ferrand. AFEDEV brings together researchers and practitioners in the field of development economics and promotes research in development economics in France.

PLENARY SPEAKERS

Abhijit Banerjee (Massachusetts Institute of Technology) or Esther Duflo (MIT, Collège de France)
Juliano Assunção (Pontifícia Universidade Católica-Rio de Janeiro)
Shilpa Aggarwal (Indian School of Business)

SUBMITTING PAPERS & IMPORTANT DATES

Only full paper submissions (either in English or in French) will be considered for the conference. Presentations will be held in English.

Submission deadline : 15 February 2023

Submission information : <https://icde2023.sciencesconf.org>

Paper presentations will be performed with parallel sessions and poster sessions. Authors chosen to present papers or posters will be notified by mid-April. A preliminary program will be announced by mid-May.

FUNDING

There will be a limited budget to fund travel and accommodation expenses for presenters who are currently living and working in developing countries to cover travel costs to Paris, accommodation, and registration fees. Application for this financial support has to be made during the submission process (in the "comments" section). The funding provided may be partial.
